

Richard Anthes

University Corporation for Atmospheric Research

Richard Anthes is the president of the University Corporation for Atmospheric Research (UCAR), which manages the National Center for Atmospheric Research (NCAR). He is a highly regarded atmospheric scientist, author, educator and administrator who has contributed considerable research in the atmospheric sciences. Dr. Anthes has published over 100 peer-reviewed articles and books and participated on or chaired over 40 different U.S. national committees. He has also received numerous awards for his sustained contributions to the atmospheric sciences. In October 2003 he was awarded the Friendship Award by the Chinese government, the most prestigious award given to foreigners, for his contributions over the years to atmospheric science and weather forecasting in China. He was co-chair in 2004-2007 of the first ever National Research Council "Decadal Survey" for Earth Science observations from space. Most recently, Dr. Anthes served as President of the American Meteorological Society for 2007.