

The Pasterze Glacier in western Austria, October 3, 2001. Higher summer temperatures and lower winter snowfall have been causing the glacier to recede since 1856. (Data from the IKONOS satellite; image © Space Imaging.)